Realize the potential of your profession

With more than 80,000 members, the American College of Surgeons (ACS) is the largest organization of surgeons in the world, uniquely positioned to lead the way in optimal patient care, surgical research, health policy, continuing education, and networking opportunities. We have much to offer surgeons of all specialties, a turning point in their career. Join your pediatric surgeon colleagues. Become a member, and take advantage of the following opportunities and resources.

ADVOCACY EFFORTS

ACS is the recognized voice for surgeons; advocate for positions and issues that benefit all surgical specialties at the state and national levels. The College's health policy priorities include advocating before Congress and in state capitals, representing the interests of surgeons and their clinical practices to federal agencies and quality improvement organizations, and fostering an effective federal and state grassroots advocacy network.

Take advantage of workshops on practice management and coding issues and our practice management literature. Participate in the Spring Leadership & Advocacy Summit and attend Congressional Liaison & Relationship Building with our members of Congress. Access SurgeonVoice.org to learn more about our elected officials and their positions on issues.

ENGAGE EDUCATIONAL INITIATIVES

Join the American College of Surgeons Chapter Network in conjunction with the College to provide outstanding local networking and educational opportunities.

Access ACS Connect, a multiple member-only online community for surgeons to connect, engage, and share information in real time.

Be a part of the Surgeon Promote, participate in, or become faculty for the Stop the Bleed program.

Join the American College of Surgeons Global Network. Consider participating in a domestic or international surgical collaboration opportunity.
